 Violence and abuse against children

Data from 96 countries on past-year prevalences of violence against children showed a minimum of 50% or more of children in Asia, Africa, and Northern America experienced past-year violence.

Globally over 1 billion children, ages 2–17 years experienced violence over the last year.

Hills, S., Mercy, J., Amodi, A., & Kress, H. (2016). Global prevalence of past-year violence against children: a systematic review and minimum estimates. Pediatrics, 137(3).

1. Establish a positive school climate rooted in the active participation and empowerment of learners

School climate is a multidimensional construct representing perceptions of the educational environment, connected to the beliefs, values, and attitudes that shape the interactions between learners, teachers, and administrators within a school.

Research shows that a positive, safe, healthy, promoting inclusion, and relationship-oriented learning environment leads to more effective learning and engagement, personal growth and positive well-being of learners and teachers. A positive school climate is also linked to lower absenteeism rates and of low achievement levels, and it helps sustain the impact of low achievement levels and in academic achievement. Building a positive school climate is to lay with the rights of children and young people to physical and mental health, quality education, protection and participation.

INSPIRING PRACTICES

What are some inspiring practices in your school? How do you do it? What are the challenges? What are the resources? What are the outcomes? What are the next steps?

FURTHER RESOURCES

What resources do you need? What are the challenges? What are the resources? What are the outcomes? What are the next steps?

Indirect Effects of Teachers' Attachment Style (2)

The Max Stern Yezreel Valley College

Teachers' Attachment Style, and Caregiving Behaviors

Teachers' Attachment Style	Characteristics	Caregiving Behavior
Secure	Values relationships and is emotionally available. A balanced attachment system.	Warm, supportive, attuned, and consistently responsive to students' needs.
Avoidant	Emotionally distant and self-reliant. Deactivation of the attachment system.	Detached, low emotional engagement, ignores or minimizes students' distress.
Anxious	Inconsistent and over-involved. Hyper-activation of the attachment system.	Fluctuating, intrusive, emotionally unpredictable, over-dramatizing students' distress.

DES COLLÈGUES VOLONTAIRES POUR NOTRE CONGRÈS SCIENTIFIQUE

Présentation en Assemblée Générale de la candidature de Lyon 2026 par Laurent Chazelas

Lors de l'Assemblée Générale, actualité de l'AFPEN en tant qu'association affiliée à l'ISPA, par Nathalie Gilmant

The image shows a woman with glasses and a blue jacket over a white dress, standing in front of a large screen. She is holding a small object in her hands. The screen displays a presentation slide titled "Some news from AFPEN as Affiliate". The slide contains text about the association's efforts to promote psychology in schools and increase its visibility. In the bottom right corner of the slide, the ISPA logo and the text "Coimbra • 2025" are visible. A small inset image in the top left corner of the slide shows a yellow folder labeled "ISPA Affiliate Representatives" and a handwritten note.

Some news from AFPEN as Affiliate

- Regarding our association:
The national board and his members still try hard to promote Psychology at schools and to defend the importance to have a technical councillor at the different levels of the hierarchy
- AFPEN still does its best to increase visibility and recognition of School Psychology
 - > Number of members is still the third of the population of SP in public schools in France
